2001

Château Lafleur, Pomerol	6x750ml.	9 btls	4,200 per bottle	OWC	Hong Kong

2001 is a variable vintage and will always be in the shadow of its great predecessor, 2000, at least for its reds. The white wines of Sauternes and Barsac are outstanding. The temperatures in July were generally low and whilst it was hot and dry in August, September was cool which meant that the Cabernet Sauvignon grapes struggled to reach full ripeness and, with rain in the third week, there was dilution too. The earlier ripening Merlot grapes were not so badly affected by the September weather and the Guinaudeau family at Château Lafleur made a superb wine.

2004

Château Lafleur, Pomerol	6x750ml.	2	3,750 per bottle	OWC	Hong Kong
--------------------------	----------	---	---------------------	-----	-----------

2004 Vineyard management and meticulous selection were the two essential ingredients in the making of the top wines of 2004. An even flowering meant that a large crop was promised and those who reduced their bunches per vine with a green harvest definitely improved their chances of achieving ripe grapes. Further work was needed in the vineyard after a cold August and those who sent out their vineyard workers to cut off the leaves and allow the bunches of grapes to benefit from the little sun that there was undoubtedly made superior wines. This is a classic Bordeaux vintage with higher acidities and with age, these wines will bring great pleasure.

2005

Château Cheval Blanc, 1er Grand Cru Classé, Saint-Emilion	6x750ml.	1	42,000	OWC	In Bond London
Château Ducru Beaucaillou, 2ème Cru Classé, Saint-Julien	12x750ml.	1	22,000	OWC	In Bond London

2005 An outstanding vintage not just for Bordeaux, but for the whole of France and indeed most of Europe. The growing cycle was perfect in every way and a good quantity of perfectly ripe grapes was brought into the wineries. The advice for any serious wine buyer is to buy as much 2005 Bordeaux as you can.

SAUTERNES

1996 The best vintage since 1990 and a large harvest. The summer was dry but not too hot with cool nights. The reds have been characterized by high levels of acidity and concentrated fruit which has allowed them to age well. This well-structured wine is now in its drinking window.
